Branford Boase Award 2023: submissions open

Submissions are now open for the Branford Boase Award 2023. Publishers are invited to make their submissions by the closing date, midnight Monday 28th November 2022.

The Branford Boase Award was set up in the memory of award-winning author Henrietta Branford and her editor Wendy Boase. It rewards the most promising new authors and their editors, highlighting excellence in writing and publishing for children. The Award is made annually to the most promising book for children of seven and upward by a first-time novelist and celebrated its 20th anniversary in 2019.

The author may have published other books in another genre - for example, poetry or a picture book - but eligibility for the prize requires that this is their first novel for children. Publishers are required to check that all books submitted are first novels for children and should confirm that with the authors prior to submission.

Previous winners of the prize include Frances Hardinge and her editor Ruth Alltimes for Fly By Night, Muhammad Khan and editor Lucy Pearse for I Am Thunder and Liz Hyder and editor Sarah Odedina for Bearmouth. The 2022 award was won by Maisie Chan and her editor Georgia Murray for Danny Chung Does Not Do Maths.

Eligible titles must be published between 1 January and 31 December 2022. The authors should live and work in the UK.

The Branford Boase Award is sponsored by Walker Books.
